This anthology from scholarly literature about children explores the ways society makes meaning of the period called childhood, the social forces that shape children, and the strategies children use to influence each other, their families, and the larger adult world.

The anthology includes 34 readings in 7 topic areas:

- I. Meanings of Childhood
- II. Theorizing Childhood
- III. Studying Children
- IV. Relationships
- V. Constructing Race, Ethnicity and Gender
- VI. Popular Culture, Consumption and Play
- VII. Social Problems and Inequality
